THE TEAM IN ONE LINE

One team around one pipeline: a sales lead who closes, two junior sellers who drive the deal flow, a marketing producer and an office manager — clear positions, shared number.

How the department is built.

The department runs as one team with clear positions. Everyone works toward the same commercial number; what differs is what each person carries. The sales lead carries the close — the qualified conversations, the negotiations, the merchant agreements. The junior sellers carry the engine that feeds it: they own the lead flow from conference lists, cold outreach and inbound through qualification, call setup and follow-up, and they sit in the warm conversations as the sales lead's right hand in the daily deal work.

The positions are deliberate. The junior sellers hold real commercial ground — the discipline that keeps every deal moving lives with them, and they grow inside the live deals, not beside them. Marketing production keeps Aryze sharp externally; office & operations keeps the practical machine running. Four positions, one motion.

The people.

Who holds which position.

JUNIOR SELLER

Mikkel Christensen

Drives the customer book's operating rhythm: the cold list and call setup, customer follow-up through onboarding and KYB, and the structure and overview that make the pipeline reliable — better follow-up, faster processes, more discipline around every customer.

Also assists the finance team.

Gabriel Franciscovich

Drives the demand side of the same motion: cold leads and call setup, and the marketing engine that feeds them — events, copy, campaigns and sales-driving initiatives — so marketing activity always connects to live sales dialogues rather than running beside them.

MARKETING PRODUCTION

Tobias

Carries visual and content production so Aryze looks sharp externally: design material, social content, newsletters and campaign assets — ready to use for events, sales and communication. Starts August 2026.

OFFICE & OPERATIONS

Gry

Carries the department's practical layer: a presentable, working office, event coordination and setup, photos and content from events, travel and booking, and the administrative support around the team.

The positions.

What each position carries — so responsibility is clear regardless of who holds it.

Position	Carries	Held by
Sales lead	The close. Takes over qualified leads, runs the warm and highly interested conversations, joins follow-up calls, closes, and sends the merchant agreement.	Sales lead / director
Junior seller	The deal flow. Reviews attendee lists after conferences, works the cold leads, qualifies, sets up and joins the calls, and carries the follow-up — the sales lead's right hand in daily deal work.	Mikkel · Gabriel
Marketing production	The external surface. Visual and content production: design material, social content, newsletters, campaign assets — ready to use for events, sales and communication.	Tobias (from August 2026)
Office & operations	The practical layer. Event practicalities, travel booking, administration and ad hoc support for the Gry team.

The full pipeline — six phases from lead to merchant agreement — is in the sales strategy.
